

You are a team leader in a project-based environment where transparency has been an issue. Communication breakdowns and a lack of openness have led to misunderstandings, missed deadlines, and low team morale. Your team members have expressed their concerns, and you are determined to implement transparency practices to address these issues.

Questions:

What kind of assertive communication is encouraged to clarify expectations and roles?

=>Being assertive is being respectfull,clear and also share thoughts directly.

=> Make a interactive environment to make everyone speak.

=> Encourage team members to speak openly about their challenges without fear.

=> Example: “I know we all are held up with multiple projects and you might be confused to know your roles and responsibilities, So i would Appreciate if you can be transparent and speak up your concerns.”

=>Make someone document the roles and resposibilities. This would bring more clarity within them.

Describe specific communication strategies you will use to foster transparency within your team.

1. Daily Scrum Meeting

Everyday DS Call can be implemented and ask for concerns and expectations.

Short meetings to share updation and make sure everyone gets a chance to speak

“Hope you all are doing well, Let’s do a quick 15-minute ds call every morning . Share what you did yesterday, what you’re doing today, and any blockers.”

2. Regular Reviews :

Can have regular reviews to make sure everyone is in track.

Give some appreciations like “you did a good job today, All the best on your upcoming work”

3. Make Everyone know:

When an decision is made make sure everyone knows.

“I hope you got clarity in the decision we made, If you have any query please dont hesitate to reach out to me.”

How do you establish effective feedback mechanisms by using “I” statements?

Appreciation:

“I really appreciate the way you handled the client questions and concerns yesterday.”

Suggestions:

“I believe practice makes a man perfect, So you could get more practice to improve your presentation skills.”

“Overall your presentation was good, I hope you can work on more in improving the flow of the presentation.”

“I am afraid that this idea might not be helpfull, but thank you for sharing this idea with this.”
